

Allegiant Superior Choice Product Information – Agent Version

What is Final Expense Insurance?

Final expense insurance is not an investment, it is a product to cover the cost of a funeral, burial, and final life expenses.

Why do You Need it?

Did you know, the average funeral costs anywhere from $7,000 to $12,000? This accounts for transportation, services, burial, embalming, a casket, and other necessary arrangements. A recent study done by the U.S. Bureau of Labor

Statistics revealed that these costs have risen upwards of 221 percent over the last 40 years!

Final Expense insurance provides your family with security so they aren't overwhelmed paying debt and can provide a proper burial.

What makes our product different than our competitors?

Unlike other products on the market, our underwriting process doesn't ask for:

- Height
- Weight
- Tobacco usage
- Prescription check
- Medical information bureau check

This product has the age range of 0-85 to give our policyholders extra time for coverage. This is also one of our more affordable options for customers.

It's one less item that our policyholders have to worry about when purchasing our product.
